Rockwell Employees Give Blood

On the recent visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile, employees of Rockwell Statesboro Corporation donated more than 30 pints of blood.

Constant publicity within the plant by the personnel department resulted in 100 employees volunteering to participate in the program. With the aid of the Statesboro police department, car lifts from the plant to the recreation center was organized to transport employees. An added incentive was created when General Manager R. A. Purcell indicated that employees would be allowed to go during working hours without loss of pay.

About four loads of employees made the trip before the end of work. Many of those who had volunteered to donate were from surrounding districts and had come to work with them and were there unable to get to the Recreation Center. A number of local employees, however, did make it after work and pushed the number of Rockwell donors to more than 20.

Many first time donors, and quite a few former donors gave a pint of blood. Employees unable to attend expressed a strong desire to be included in the next "donor lot" type of rabies instead of the furious type and do not bite unless disturbed.

CHRISTMAS A DAY OF

His natal day, and fill its passing hours with kindness. Of our store, to others give what their lack of our abundance divide with those with whom He would up if He were with this way so that when night wraps her folds of soft darkness about our comfortable beds we may fall asleep with the sweet remembrance that through us some sore heart has been gladdened, some wounded soul made happy.

Committee Explains New Soil Bank Law

J. L. Morgan, chairman of the Georgia Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, releases the following statement concerning comments that soil bank programs give special advantages to corn farmers at the expense of other farmers:

"Charges by some of our southern farm leaders that the soil bank program discriminate against the south have been based generally on three contentions: (1) The acreage reserve program for 1956 was more attractive to the corn farmers, as evidenced by the high percentage of the total compensation that will be paid for corn acreage placed in the acreage reserve; (2) a corn base acreage which was 8,000,000 acres above the national corn allotment was provided for the corn farmers, whereas farmers of other commodities were required to reduce from their allotments in order to participate in the acreage reserve program; and (3) the payment rates established for corn and wheat provided more incentive for farmers to reduce their acreages than was the case with respect to cotton, peanuts and tobacco. Facts and circumstances concerning these three points are:

(1) The maximum payment for farmers who have signed agreements under the 1956 Acreage Reserve Program of the Soil Bank is $201,000,000. The maximum payment for corn acreage placed under acreage reserve is $181,000,000, as compared with $80,000,000 for the other basic crops. Participation by livestock, the Soil Bank programs is on a voluntary basis. Under the 1956 Acreage Reserve Program, offers to place

T. G. WALTERS HONORED FOR AGRICULTURE WORK

T. G. Walters, state supervisor of agricultural education for Georgia since 1942, is named "Man of the Year" in service to Georgia agriculture by The Progressive Farmer magazine in its January issue.

His enthusiasm for improved livestock, food processing, forestry, and better pastures has been transmitted to teachers and farmers. It's a big factor in the state's farm progress.

As a teacher of vocational agriculture at Moultrie and Oklawaha, Walters put emphasis on beef cattle and was a pioneer in the improvement of the swine industry.

With Dr. M. D. Mobley, former state FFA adviser, he developed what is the State FFA-FFA Camp near Covington.

Mr. Walters has many "firsts" to his credit. One of his students was Georgia's first State Star Farmer. He was the first vocational teacher to have a student grow out a "sanitary" litter of hogs, forerunner of today's production practices.

He built Moultrie county's first food processing center, where farm families can more than 100,000 pints of food each summer.

He started one of the first school forests in the state, and has been honored among vocational agriculture teachers of Georgia for doing the most successful work in forestry. Georgia's vocational agriculture program today is largest in the nation.

Santa Claus came then and gave out the gifts to the children and their secret sisters gifts, and then by taking a number we exchanged gifts for both men and women. The entire family were invited.

All had a wonderful time. The January meeting will be with Mrs. Roland Moore.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO FARMERS—SOIL CONSERVATION—FORESTRY—LIVESTOCK

News of the Farm Bureau

By Byron Dyer

A. J. Woods was named president of the Farm Bureau for next year at the annual meeting held last week.

The former officers were also elected to serve with Mr. Woods. They are M. L. Taylor as vice president and Bill Brown secretary and treasurer.

Ela went for fun only at the Christmas party last Tuesday night, using films of an entertaining nature entirely and all the group participating in the "eating" contest of fruit, cake, coffee, nuts and candy.

Ogechee had only one item of business in their Christmas party on Wednesday night, naming the serving committees for next year and the program chairman for each month.

The program chairman are Fred Hodges for January, J. A. Hart in February, C. W. Zetterover for March, I. V. Simmons in April, Roy Kelly in May, Edgar Miller in June, Frank Proctor in August, George H. Miller in September, J. B. Brannen in October and J. T. Williams in November. December is set aside for the annual Christmas party and July usually calls for a community picnic. Mrs. J. B. Brannen, Mrs. Fred Hodges, and Mrs. Rex Hart presented a very appropriate Christmas program in an elaborately decorated auditorium.

Young Beef Animals Need Room

By providing young beef animals with plenty of room, much of the risk of coccidiosis troubles in the herd can be avoided, the American Foundation for Animal Health said recently.

"Crowding the animals into small lots or pastures increases the contamination of the ground and the disease may quickly spread through all animals," Foundation spokesmen warned. "Calves have much less coccidiosis infection than older animals because they have plenty of room."

Coccidiosis is caused by a tiny parasite similar to the one which infects chickens. But, the Foundation hastens to point out that the condition cannot be transmitted from cattle to chickens, nor can cattle get the disease from chickens.

Early signs of coccidiosis are weakness, bloody droppings, anemia, and loss of weight. Young animals, coming down with the disease, may also show a rough hair coat, droopy ears and sunken eyes.

Frequent cleaning of feed lots will help avoid coccidiosis trouble. Feed and water containers should be elevated to help avoid contamination, as the disease is usually spread by dirty feed and water.

Prompt diagnosis is important because herd treatment by a veterinarian will help protect the rest of the herd and usually helps animals showing symptoms of the disease, the Foundation says.

If a nation values anything more than freedom, it will lose its freedom; and the irony of it is that if it is comfort or money that it values more, it will lose that too—Somerset Maugham.

Acres Reserve Program

much of the total cost of production had already been invested by farmers for seed, fertilizer, insecticides and machines and manual labor involved in cultivation. Except for parts of the southwest, crop conditions were generally favorable.

With the favorable outlook for crops that were well advanced toward maturity, the acreage reserve program was less attractive than it had been in the past.

It was truly an evening of Christmas celebration in the real holiday spirit.

Ivanhoe went for right much the same kind of program as Ogechee did at their annual party on Saturday night, except they did serve a bountiful supper as is the custom at all their regular first Friday night meetings. It is always their custom to put gifts on the tree, draw numbers, and then the 29-cent gifts are distributed to open and make merry over for the program. The gift trading always brings out a lot of good laughs at the Ivanhoe party. These novelty gifts put on the Ivanhoe tree help to make this annual Yule affair a very pleasant evening.

Farm Bureau meetings will start their normal pace Wednesday, January 2, with Brooklet chapter beginning the first in the new year. Middle Ground followed on Thursday night as per usual. Denmark's meeting date falls on New Year's day so they voted not to meet in January, except for the officers to have a session of their own to set up serving committees and make plans for the year ahead. Ivanhoe will not meet on January 4, since the annual party on December 22 replaces that meeting.

Rockwell Corporation Fine Christmas Party

In one of the finest Christmas parties ever held in our community the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation on Saturday played host to their employees and their families and to a small number of special guests for the occasion. Approximately 800 men, women, and children were on hand for the affair and to greet Santa Claus as he visited among the children passing out candy.

Johnson Black, personnel director for the local division, acted as master of ceremonies for the occasion and after the invocation presented Ralph Purcell, General Manager of the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation who welcomed the employees, their visitors and guests.

Speaking for the city of Statesboro and the community generally Mayor W. A. Bowen expressed the pleasure of our local folks at having the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation in our midst and of the tremendous success with which the Christmas Party had gotten underway. "Here is truly, Democracy in Action" he said as he featured toward the large gathering who had come to participate with the company in the celebration of Christmas.

Large stacks of toys for both boys and girls were lined up in front of the tall Christmas tree and ready to be distributed to each age group. Starting with babies under one year old the gifts were distributed through age 16 and included gifts that brought delight and joy to those in attendance.

Some few of the gifts included footballs, basketball sets, gym sets, clocks, paint sets, dolls, trucks, and almost any toy that one could want for.

Dinner was served to the group after the completion of the Christmas tree party.

Christmas checks, the minimum of which was for $10, were distributed to 250 employees.

Besides the management and personnel of the Rockwell Statesboro Corporation, on hand for the affair was Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Dixon, Jr., of the Pittsburg office. Flying down in a company plane, the party arrived just before lunch for the affair. Mr. Dixon is Vice-President of the Motor and Valve Division. Their two children, Laddie and Peter, accompanied them. Also in the party was Mr. and Mrs. Marian Huff. Mr. Huff is Regional Sales Manager of Gas and Oil products of the Florida territory. With the party were several other Rockwell customers who had been invited to join the group for the visit with the local concern.

Special guests from Statesboro included besides Mayor W. A. Bowen and Mrs. Bowen, Dr. and Mrs. John Mooney and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. McAllister, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Thad Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Leodel Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thompson and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Shields Renan and family.

Winn-Dixie, Inc., Distributes Bonuses

Winn-Dixie Stores, Inc. announced today that it has distributed over $300,000 in Christmas bonuses to its employees during the past week. The annual cash distribution is a part of the company's plan to share its profits with employees, according to H. L. Avery, Vice President in charge of the Jacksonville Division.

In addition to the annual Christmas bonus the company also distributes Profit Sharing Retirement checks each year. This fund consists of the cash payment to employees plus placing part of the company's profits in trust to the accounts of eligible employees for retirement.

The fund established in 1946 now consists of over seven and a half million dollars assets which belong to seventeen hundred and fifty Winn-Dixie employees. The cost of the plan is borne entirely by the company and employees are not required to contribute, Mr. Avery said.

"There is no possible way of stopping the siltation of our reservoirs, streams, ditches and harbors except with soil conservation,"—Dr. Hugh H. Bennett.

Mrs. Ray Jones Durden died at her home in Atlanta last Saturday after a long illness.

She is survived by her husband, Ray Durden of Atlanta, formerly of Emanuel County; her mother, Mrs. Julie Weir of Daytona Beach, Fla., and one brother, Roland Jones, also of Daytona Beach.

Graveside services were held in Eastside Cemetery, Statesboro, Monday at 2 p. m. with the Rev. Leslie S. Williams, officiating. Smith-Tillman Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Last year 80,000 Americans died of cancer because proper treatment was begun too late. A regular health examination is the best cancer insurance, says the American Cancer Society.

THANKS

With all my heart I thank the citizens of Bulloch County for their overwhelming support which elected me to the office of Tax Commissioner to succeed my father, the late John P. Lee. Without your good wishes and support my election would have been impossible. And now that I am elected I want you to know that I shall fill the office to the very best of my ability with only one thing in mind and that to be of service to all with special privilege to none.
